

1. A teacher may not accept pay for tutoring students who are enrolled in the teacher's class.
2. A teacher may not accept pay to tutor a student enrolled in their school, taking a class that the teacher teaches, even if the student is taking the class with another teacher.
3. The Alberta Distance Learning Centre (ADLC) contracts the services of teachers as Markers as part of their service delivery program. They are paid by ADLC, not the student.
